

Trainertext Visual Phonics

Workbook 1

ant, octopus, kangaroos, bear, goat, toad

What is TVP?

Trainertext characters are fun, memorable images which represent the sounds (phonemes) of the English language. The characters act as a phonemic guide presented above the letters, so that you can sound out any word, no matter how irregular.

How does it work?

With TVP there is no need for frustrating, inconsistent phonics rules. When a child is stuck working out a word, the trainertext characters are there to help sound it out correctly. It soon becomes easy to get every word right when reading!

Why does the brain love it?

Each character is so distinctive, that children find it easy to associate the sound to the image and start decoding. By repeatedly decoding words accurately, the child's brain maps the relationships between letters and sounds. Soon, the child is able to decode just from the letters, and the characters are no longer needed.

Meet the Characters

Ant in Pink Pants

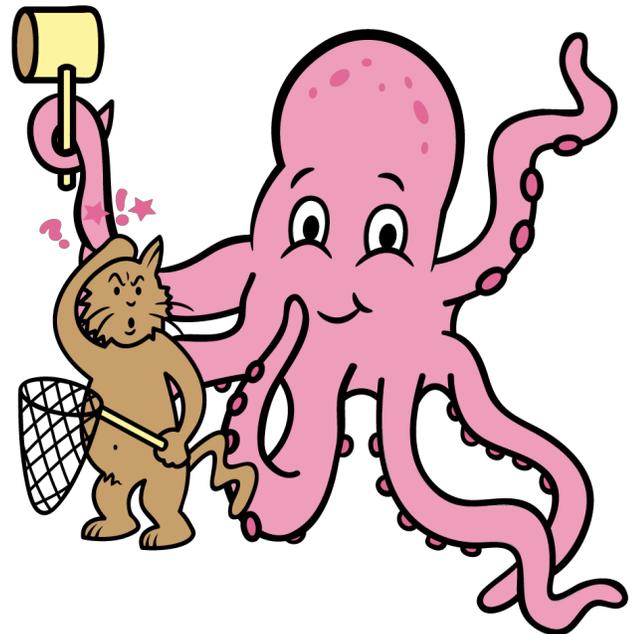

Hello! I am the Ant in Pink Pants! I love wearing my pink undies while I climb ant hills all day! I help in words like: RAT and HAND.

rat hand

Octopus who Knocked a Puss

This nasty cat tried to catch me in his net, so I bopped him on the head! I help with OFF and SWAP.

swap off

Kangaroos Reading the News

I am mommy kangaroo, and I read the news. Little Roo usually reads a comic strip! I help in words like: KIT and COW.

kit cow

Bear with Long Hair

I have a special pocket just for my hair comb because I like to look fantastic. I help in words like BAG and TUB

tub bag

Goat in a Boat

I love to row in a rainstorm. I help in words like: EGG and GO.

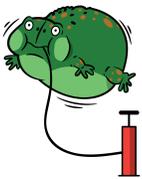

egg

go

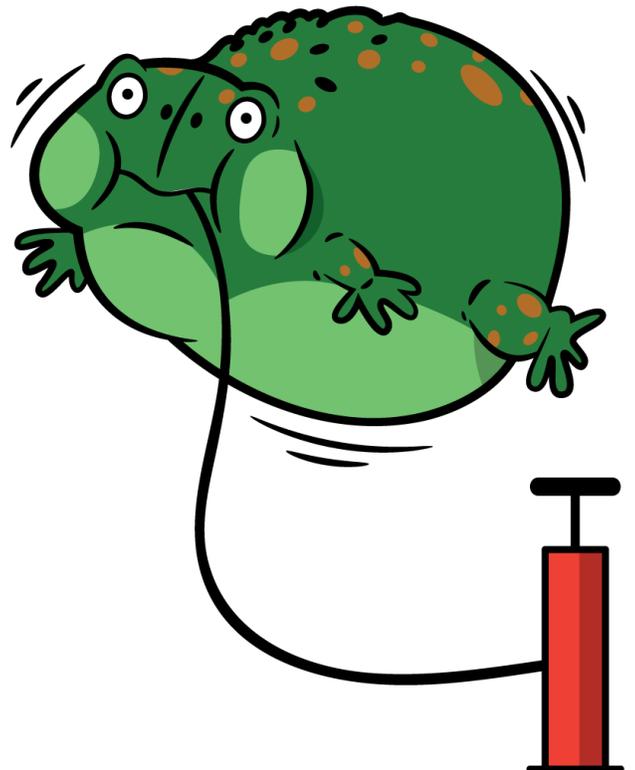

Toad About to Explode

I started playing with this bike pump and now I am rather stuck -- although it IS fun to fly! I help in words like: TO and IT to

Trainertext Games

TEACHER NOTES: Now that your learner has been introduced to the Trainertext characters, they can start using them to decode. Read out the following instructions to your learner and help when needed.

Sound Match

Draw a line to show which characters could fill the blank to make a word. HINT: There is more than one!

ANSWER: The toad and the bear, for cat and cab.

Silly Words

Can you decode the words below and circle the real word? Don't get tricked by the silly words!

b o k t o b c o t

ANSWER: cot.

Draw the Word

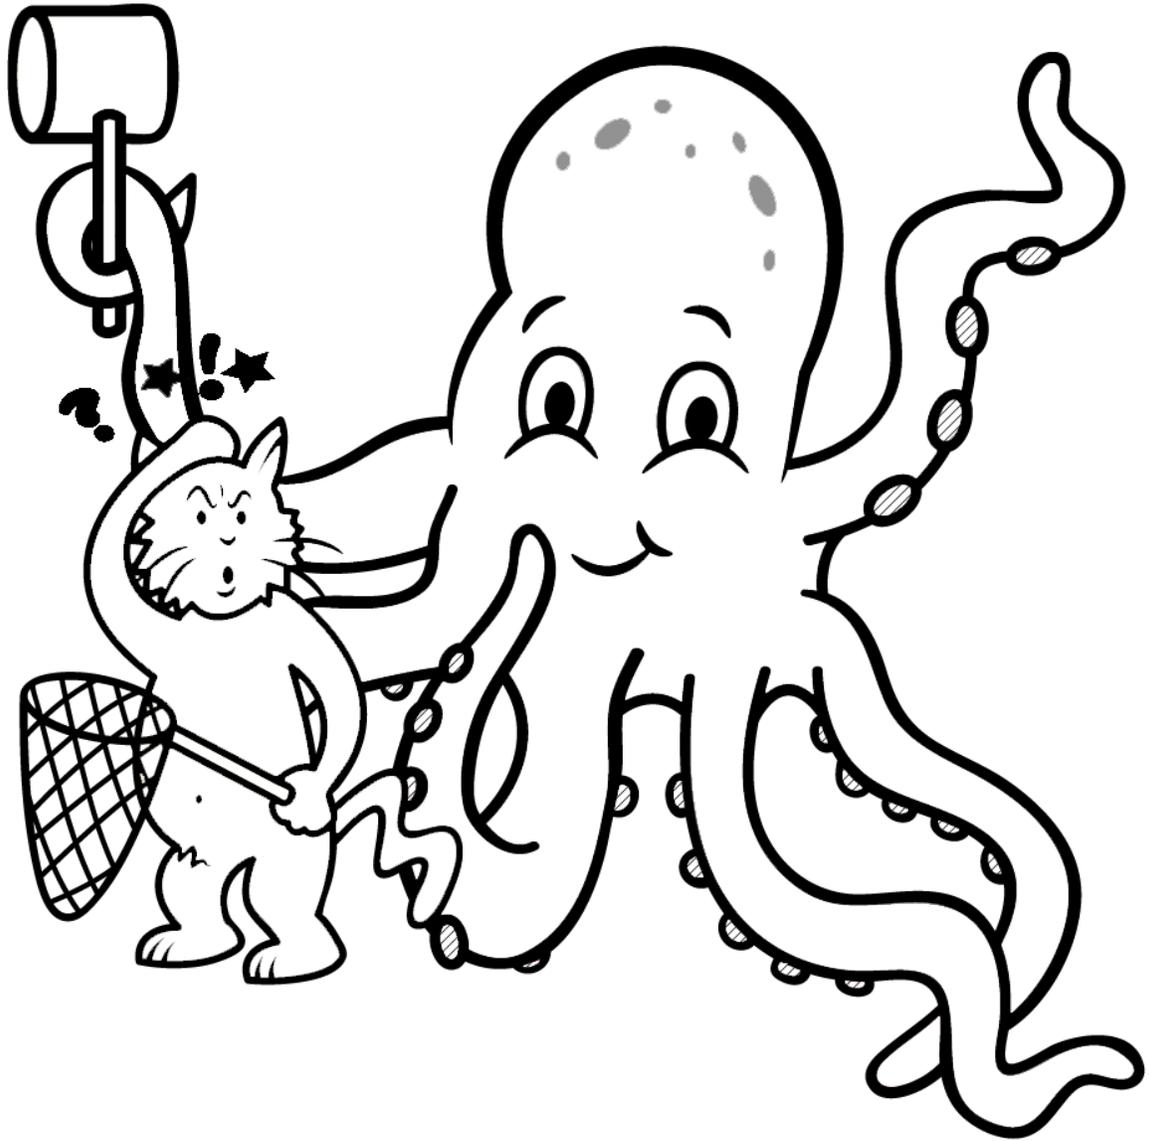

Sound out the following characters, and draw a picture of the word they make, in the box.

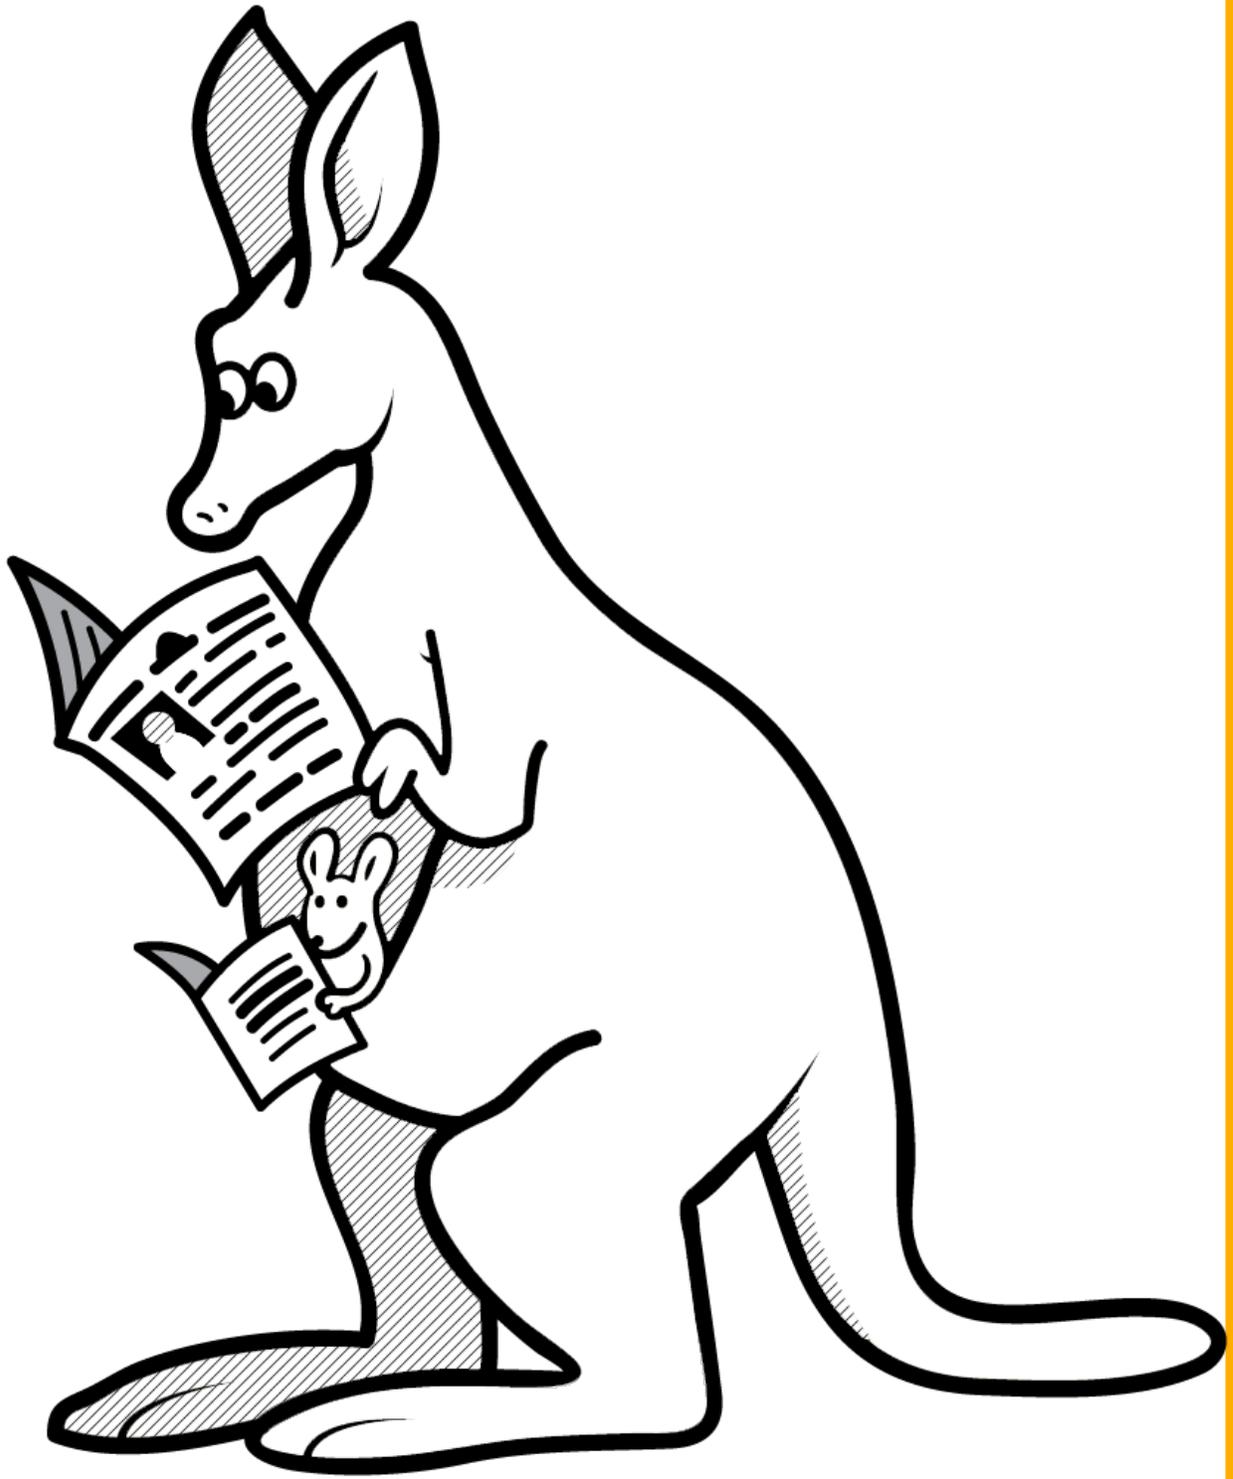

ANSWER: cat, bag.

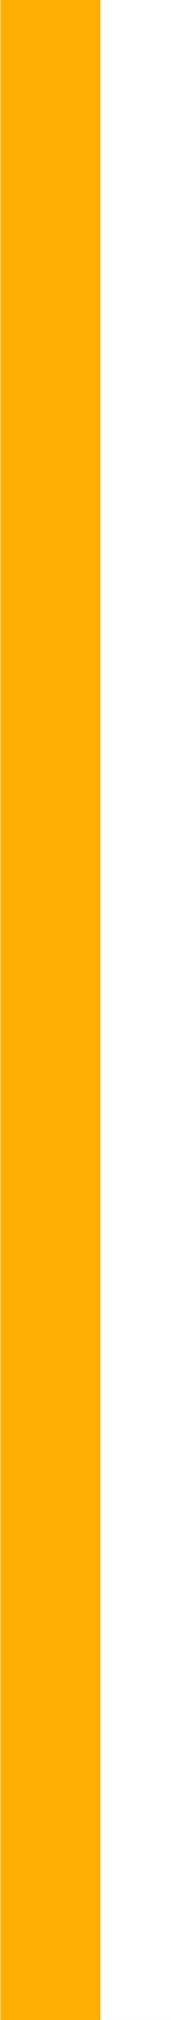

Grab your crayons!

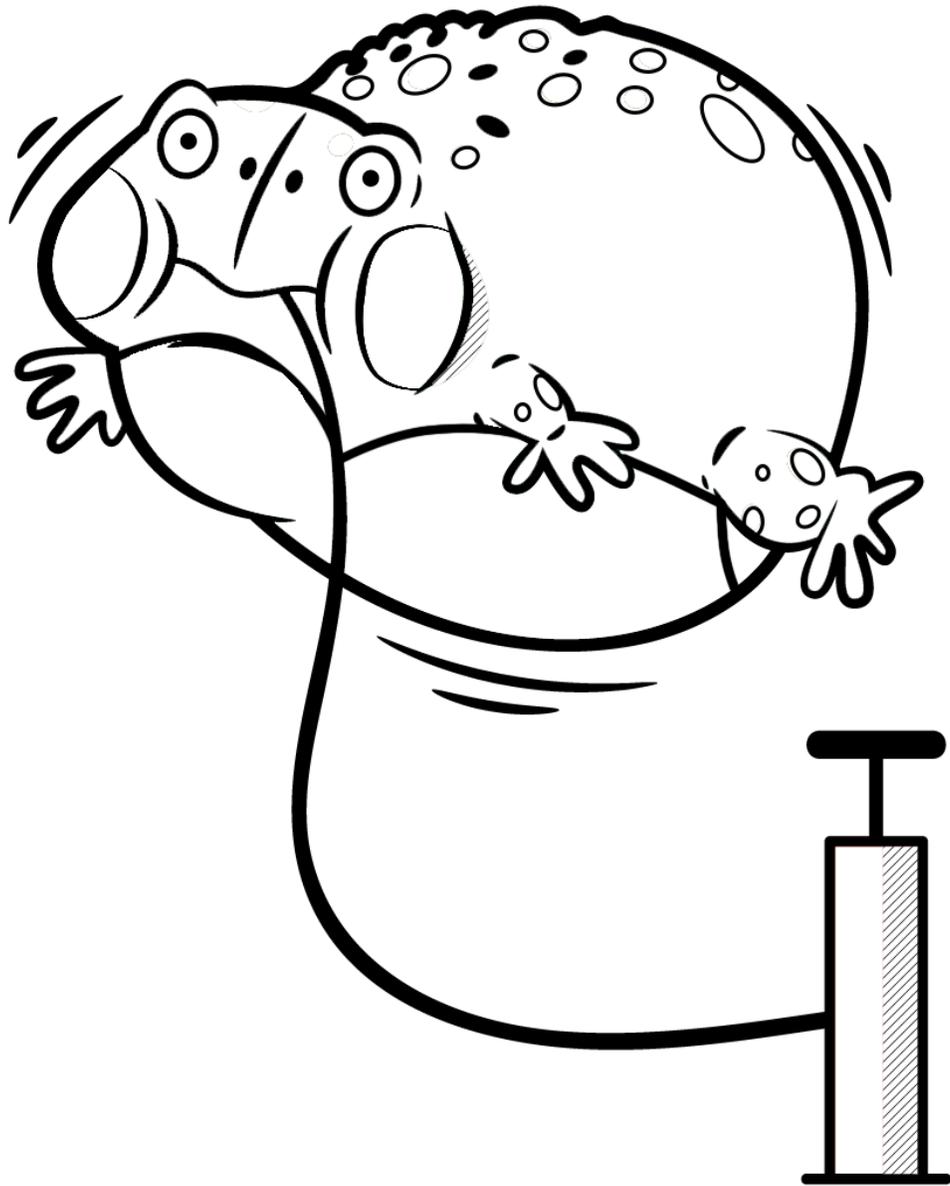

Word List

TEACHER NOTES: Here are some words you can make from phonemes learned so far. You can practice encoding these using the TVP card set, writing the letters on a piece of paper and placing the characters above them:

got tag

bat

back

bag

More words for reading practice: gag, cat, cog, cot, bog, tack

TVP Card Set Games

Trainertext visual phonics is a perfect (fun!) way to develop strong phonemic awareness, auditory processing skills, and decoding ability. You can print out a card set for free here - https://www.helpingchildrentoread.com/resources/trainertextprintables/ or order it on Amazon: https://www.helpingchildrentoread.com/resources/for-purchase/ . Here are some fun games for your 4-7 year old students using the card set.

- Character Grab
 - Pick a random handful of character cards, and see how many different words you can come up with. Can be played in teams or one-on-one
- Sound Match
 - The teacher/parent writes a simple word down, and places the characters above the letters, with one sound missing. See if your student can pick the correct missing sound. So if you had HAT, you might put the Horse over the H and the Toad over the T, and the child has to find the Ant for the A.
- Flip the Deck
 - Place the card set face down on the table. Set a stopwatch timer going. Flip over a card at a time, and have the student tell you the sound (not name) as fast as possible. Continue through the deck until every card has been flipped. Stop the timer. See if you can beat your time, next time you play! Can also be played in teams.
- Room Race
 - Pick a Trainertext character and ask your learners to race around the room collecting as many objects as they can that have the same starting sound. So if you hold up the Kangaroos, they might collect cups, cards, etc. Great to play in teams. If physically collecting objects feels like chaos, you can also have them call them out to list on the board (see which team can think of the most objects in the room)
