

Trainertext Visual Phonics

Workbook 5

horse, lion, queen, rabbit, oon, chimpanzee, ark

What is TVP?

Trainertext characters are fun, memorable images which represent the sounds (phonemes) of the English language. The characters act as a phonemic guide presented above the letters, so that you can sound out any word, no matter how irregular.

o f f

How does it work?

With TVP there is no need for frustrating, inconsistent phonics rules. When a child is stuck working out a word, the trainertext characters are there to help sound it out correctly. It soon becomes easy to get every word right when reading!

Why does the brain love it?

Each character is so distinctive, that children find it easy to associate the sound to the image and start decoding. By repeatedly decoding words accurately, the child's brain maps the relationships between letters and sounds. Soon, the child is able to decode just from the letters, and the characters are no longer needed.

How to get started

Guide your child through this workbook to get started using TVP and begin the reading journey! You can find our other resources at helpingchildrentoread.com

Meet the Characters

Horse on a Course

I am the Horse on a Course. When I get tired of racing, I ask my jockey for a ride across the finish line! I help in words like: HAT and WHO hat who

Lion with a Tie On

I am the Lion with a Tie On. My blue suit and clown shoes make the other lions a bit jealous. I help in words like: LOW and ALL

low

all

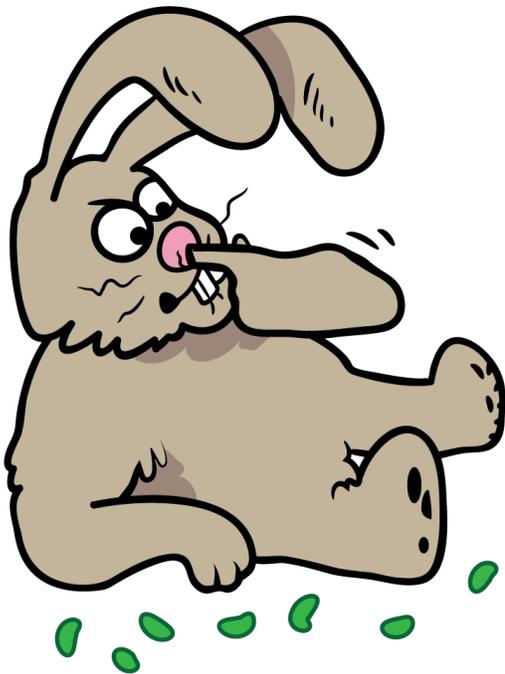

Queen Looking Green

I am the Queen Looking Green. I ate too much cake and now I am feeling sick! I help in words like: QUIT and QUACK quit

quack

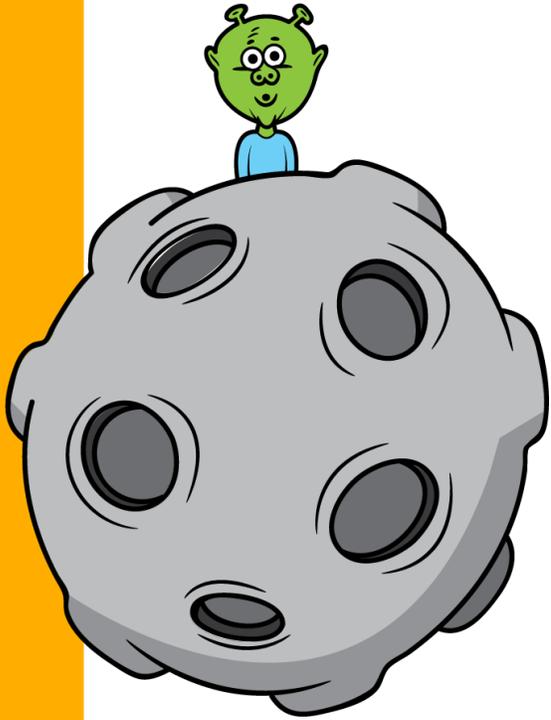

Rabbit with a Bad Habit

I am the Rabbit with a Bad Habit. I sit around and pick my nose when I think no one is looking! I help in words like: ROW and WRITE row

write

Oon on the Moon

I am the Oon on the Moon. I live in a crater, and when the sun goes down I pop up my head to say "ooh!" (That is alien for "hi!"). I help in words like: TO and GROUP to group

Chimpanzee Learning to Ski

I am the Chimpanzee Learning to Ski. My favorite trick is a loop-de-loop off the ski jump - except I always lose my blue hat! I help in words like CHAT and PITCH.

chat

pitch

Ark in the Park

I am the Ark in the Park. The animals aboard my ship like to romp on the playground -- have you ever seen elephants on a seesaw? I help in words like ART and HEART.

art heart

Trainertext Games

TEACHER NOTES: Now that your learner has been introduced to the Trainertext characters, they can start using them to decode. Read out the following instructions to your learner and help when needed.

Sound Match

Draw a line to show which characters could fill the blank to make a word. HINT: There is more than one!

S _ I

ANSWER: Eagle and ape for seal and sail.

Word Match

Draw a line to match the word to the correct Trainertext coding.

chin

hat

sock

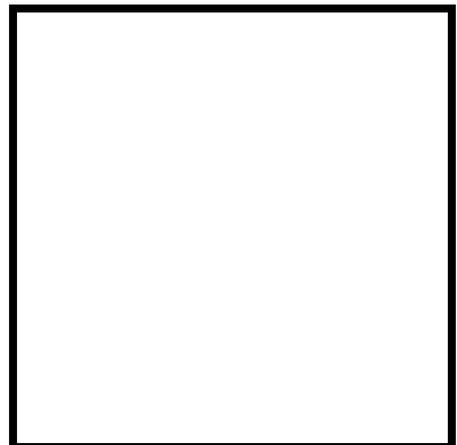

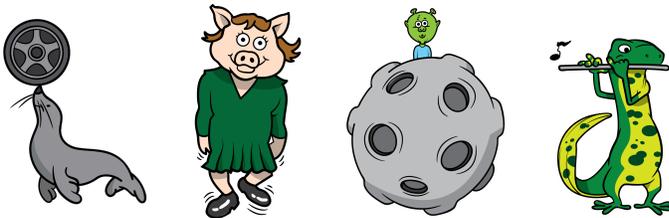

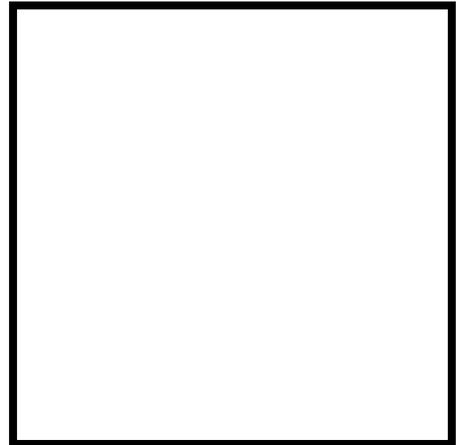

quack

Draw the Word

Sound out the following characters, and draw a picture of the word they make in the box.

ANSWER: lamb, car, spoon.

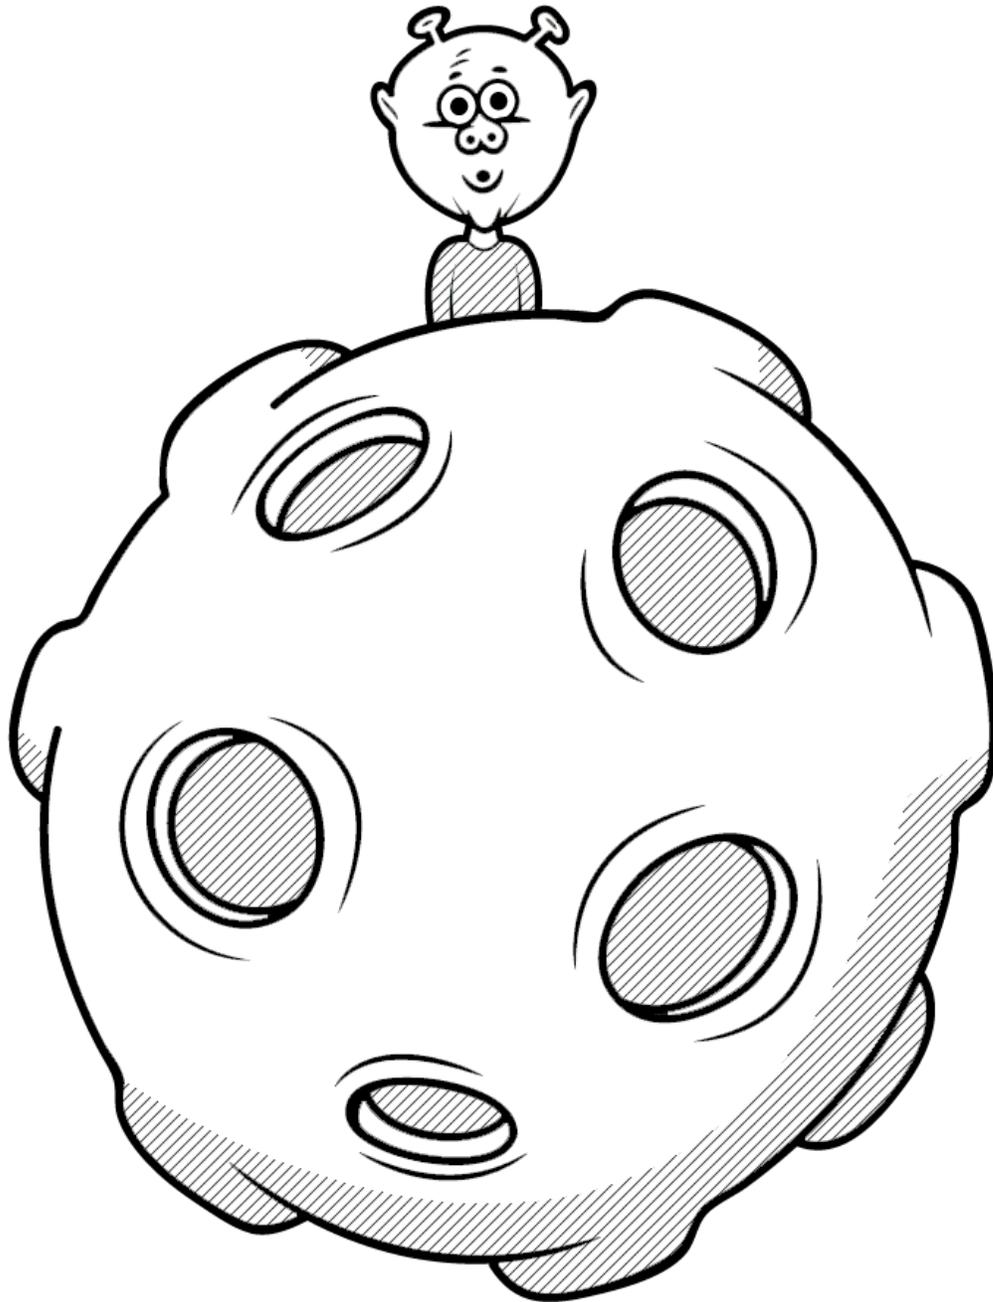

Grab your crayons!

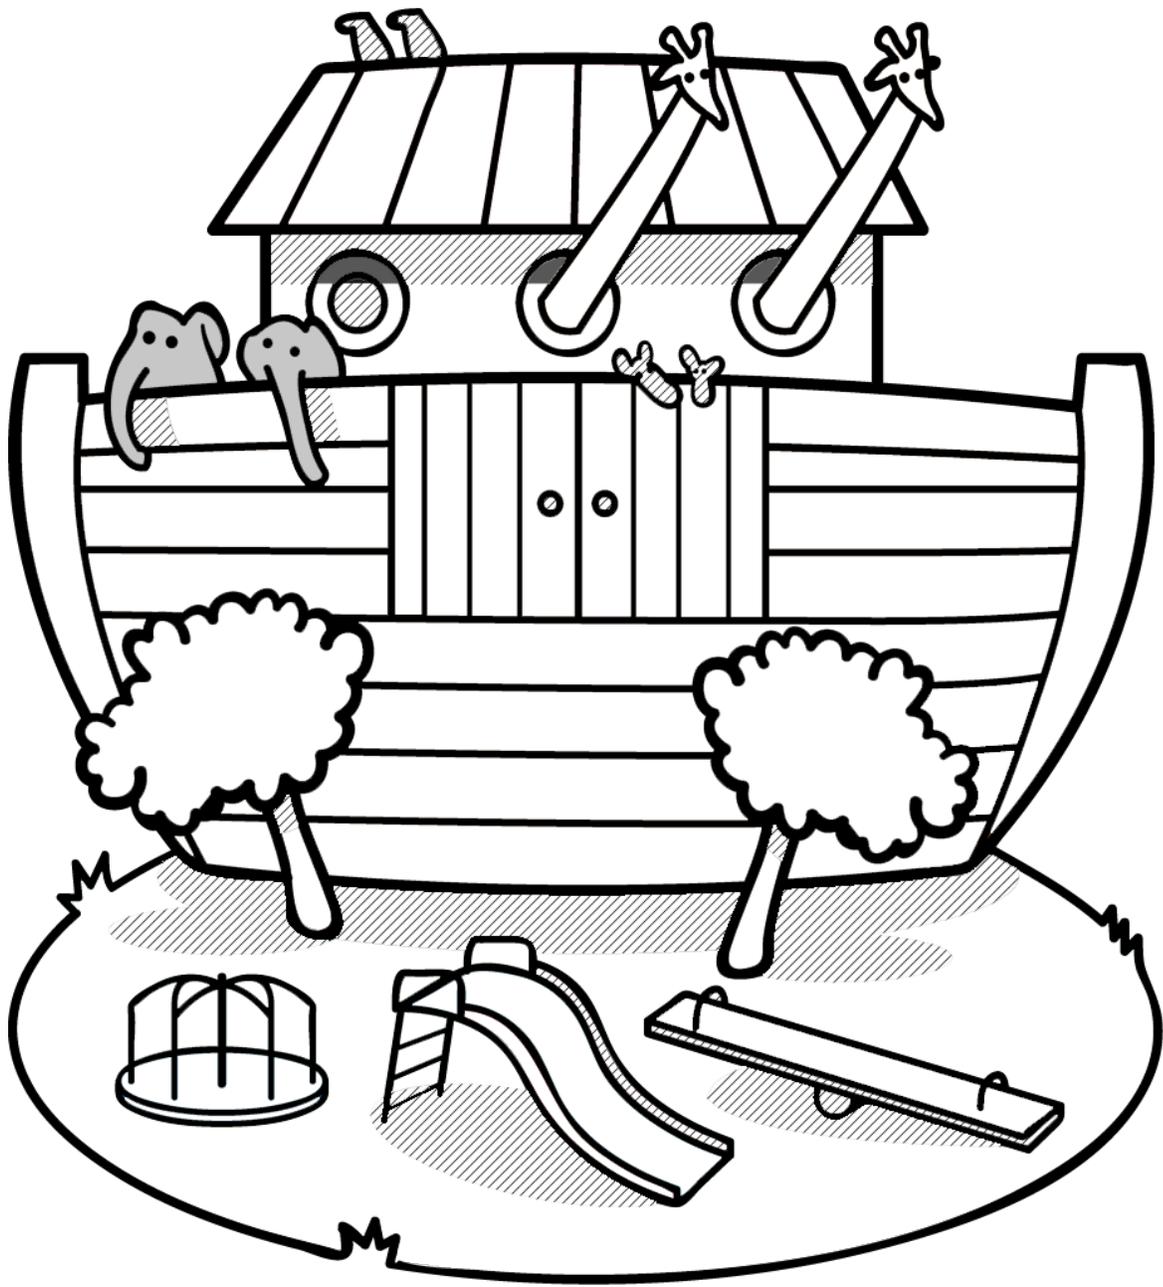

Word List

TEACHER NOTES: Here are some words you can make from phonemes learned so far. You can practice encoding these using the TVP card set, writing the letters on a piece of paper and placing the characters above them:

hole

quick

blue

happy high

friend

More words for reading practice: do, he, to, too, two, arm, air, hat, jug, hug, hen, lie, leg, lid, log, rip, rat, ran, rug, red, bell, hill, hope, hear, hand, doll, rest, ride, lick, help, milk, park, pair, hair, here, near, bear, pear, dare, care, road, rake, boot, sock, root, bowl, goal, grow, blow, blue, clue, grew, flew, grew, rule, rude, June, moon, lamb, blow, grin, rain, play, high, head, soon, food, pool, plant, glass, class, field, each, rich, much, such, green, chair, bright, bread, black, right, rock, whale, today, rabbit, carrot, family, Friday, afraid, garden.

TVP Card Set Games

Trainertext visual phonics is a perfect (fun!) way to develop strong phonemic awareness, auditory processing skills, and decoding ability. You can print out a card set for free here - <https://www.helpingchildrentoread.com/resources/trainertext-printables/> or order it on Amazon: <https://www.helpingchildrentoread.com/resources/for-purchase/> . Here are some fun games for your 4-7 year old students using the card set.

- Character Grab
 - Pick a random handful of character cards, and see how many different words you can come up with. Can be played in teams or one-on-one
- Sound Match
 - The teacher/parent writes a simple word down, and places the characters above the letters, with one sound missing. See if your student can pick the correct missing sound. So if you had HAT, you might put the Horse over the H and the Toad over the T, and the child has to find the Ant for the A.
- Flip the Deck
 - Place the card set face down on the table. Set a stopwatch timer going. Flip over a card at a time, and have the student tell you the sound (not name) as fast as possible. Continue through the deck until every card has been flipped. Stop the timer. See if you can beat your time, next time you play! Can also be played in teams.
- Room Race
 - Pick a Trainertext character and ask your learners to race around the room collecting as many objects as they can that have the same starting sound. So if you hold up the Kangaroos, they might collect cups, cards, etc. Great to play in teams. If physically collecting objects feels like chaos, you can also have them call them out to list on the board (see which team can think of the most objects in the room)